

Dr Demetrios J. Halazonetis

Dr Halazonetis received his dental education at the University of Athens Dental School and his orthodontic training at the Orthodontic Department of Tufts University, where he also completed a Master's of Science course. He has been in private practice of orthodontics in Athens, Greece since 1987 and is currently Associate Professor of Orthodontics at the University of Athens. Dr Halazonetis has published more than 50 scientific and educational papers and has given more than 60 presentations at orthodontic meetings. He is the author of the Viewbox cephalometric software and Associate Editor of the American Journal of Orthodontics and Dentofacial Orthopaedics. His research interests and areas of expertise include cephalometrics and computed tomography applications (three-dimensional cephalometrics and treatment planning), geometric morphometrics and facial aesthetics.